THE BAREFOOT CONSERVATION CENTER

After great work and commitment, in 2021 The Barefoot Eco Hotel was certified as a GSTC sustainable hotel. The GSTC certification promotes the increased knowledge, understanding and adoption of sustainable tourism practices.

All our marine excursions have been designed and developed to reduce the impact on the environment on one side, and on the other to contribute to the monitoring of biodiversity and the economy of the local community. Particularly, during the turtle, manta ray and dolphin monitoring excursions, guests will have the opportunity to be actively involved in the collection of data to help the marine biologist's job in the monitoring process of the population distribution of these animals.

Beach Clean-Up: the marine biologist alongside with the diving center organise clean-up days to protect the beach and surrounding systems. In doing so, we can keep the environment clean and most importantly, we promote awareness to our guests about ocean pollution.

Evening Presentations: we offer marine biology talks, three times a week, covering topics from rays to sharks, turtles and dolphins, fish identification, coral reefs and plastic pollution. Moreover, marine themed documentaries and diving videos are played during the week after dinner.

The mission of The Barefoot Eco Hotel is not only to preserve the marine environments but also to conserve the above sea level habitat. The hotel offers cultural and environmental bike tours in the local village, for a peek into the authentic Maldivian lifestyle. We also organise guided trips to Utheemu Island, to visit the Palace of the Sultan Mohammad Thakurufaaru and to learn about his importance in Maldivian history.
